Who is Eligible to Apply to Emory’s MMUF Program?

1. Rising Juniors with a preferred minimum GPA of 3.2.
2. Study in one of the many designated fields or disciplines.
3. Demonstrate a commitment to increasing the presence of African Americans, Hispanics/Latinxs, and Native Americans in the academy.
4. Express serious interest in pursuing graduate studies leading to a Ph.D. in one of the humanities or a select group of disciplines in the sciences and social sciences.

Disciplinary Areas

Anthropology/Archaeology
Area/Cultural/Ethnic/Gender Studies
Art History
Classics
Geography and Population Studies
English
Film/Cinema/Media Studies (theoretical focus)
Musicology & Ethnomusicology
Foreign Languages and Literatures
History
Linguistics
Literature

Performance Studies (theoretical focus)
Philosophy and Political Theory
Religion and Theology
Sociology
Theater (non-performance focus)

*Other fields that employ historical and philosophical methods may also be eligible. Please contact Dr. Dianne Stewart, coordinator of Emory’s MMUF program, if your field is not listed.

How to Apply?

1. Contact Emory’s MMUF Coordinators for more information:

Coordinator: Dr. Dianne Stewart
Associate Professor, African American Studies/Religion
404.727.8671
dstewa4@emory.edu

Co-Coordinator: Dr. Elaine Penagos
Visiting Assistant Professor, Religion
elaine.penagos@emory.edu

Program Coordinator: Ms. Naomi Diemer
Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship Program Coordinator
naomi.love.diemer@emory.edu

2. Applications will be available on the “Apply” page of the website.

Access the MMUF application at:
http://mellonmays.emory.edu

MMUF aims to achieve its mission by identifying and supporting students of great promise and helping them become scholars of the highest distinction.
Who is Benjamin E. Mays?

Benjamin Elijah Mays was born in 1895 in South Carolina and graduated from Bates College in Maine in 1920. He attended the University of Chicago for his master's and doctorate degrees. He taught at Morehouse College and at South Carolina State College. From 1934 to 1940, he served as Dean of Howard University's School of Religion and then became the President of Morehouse College. He also served his community, becoming the first black president of the Atlanta school board. Among his books were the first sociological study of African-American religion, The Negro's Church, The Negro's God, Disturbed about Man, and his autobiography, Born to Rebel.

Emory MMUF Expectations

1. Attend the MMUF Summer Institute held for the entire month of June.
2. Attend monthly meetings with coordinators and graduate mentors.
3. Attend regular semester advisory meetings with mentor, coordinators, and graduate student mentors.
4. Attend annual regional conferences and deliver research presentations (SERC and Emory’s MMUF Research Conference).
5. Uphold professional standards of collegiality and academic citizenship.
6. Update Annual MMUF Profile at the National Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship Program website.

MMUF Program Statistics at a Glance as of 2019:

- Total of selected MMUF students: Over 5,000
- MMUF PhDs: Over 800
- MMUF tenured faculty members: Over 120

Benefits

1. Receive a stipend of $3600 per academic year ($1800 per semester) for conducting and producing a research project.
2. Receive up to $3900 of summer funding toward research project development.
3. Receive up to $600 toward GRE prep.
4. Receive ongoing mentoring, research support, and professional guidance from faculty members, coordinators, and graduate students.
5. Receive up to $600 per academic year to support scholarly conference attendance with an MMUF mentor.
6. Receive up to $400 additional funds for senior year research.
7. Fellows who enroll in Ph.D. programs no later than 39 months after receiving the B.A. are eligible for the Loan Forgiveness program.
8. Opportunities to learn about and participate in additional affiliate undergraduate programs, for example:

The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation

Institute for Recruitment of Teachers (IRT) Summer Workshop and Association Program

Moore Undergraduate Research Assistant Program (MURAP)

The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation was established as a nonprofit philanthropic organization in June of 1969 with a mission to “aid and promote such religious, charitable, scientific, literary, and educational purposes as may be in the furtherance of the public welfare or tend to promote the well-doing or well-being of mankind.” In 1988, under this broad charter, the Foundation made a long-term commitment to help remedy the serious shortage of faculty of color in higher education through the Mellon Minority Undergraduate Fellowship (MMUF) program. The fundamental objective of the MMUF is to increase the number of minority students and others committed to diversity in higher education, who will pursue PhDs in core fields in the arts and sciences. The program aims to reduce over time the serious underrepresentation on the faculties of American colleges and universities of individuals from certain minority groups, as well as to address the attendant educational consequences of these disparities. The current program director is Dr. Armando Bengochea. The MMUF program now has a membership of 54 American colleges and universities, 39 UNCF member institutions, and three South African universities.